Hello everybody on this forum! I have some experience in organising parties and I can give you some tips.

Firstly, you need to arrange games, for example, in Russia, we have "Crocodile". It's a popular game to have cards with words. You must show it without speaking. It's difficult, funny and develops imagination.

Secondly, you must organise outside games. Like running, jumping over the fire or rollerskating. They will give you positive emotions.

Moreover, you need to buy food and drinks as everybody needs to eat. Fast food can give you energy to continue games.

To sum up, your friends must remember your party!

The constant feeling of loneliness grew up in her as she observed the cold and empty space. However, she knew that when the star becomes cold it stops shining. So she kept waiting for someone to drop by.

A lot of years passed uneventfully when little star spotted something in the distance slowly closing in. It looked like an icy stone with a long tail. This thing turned out to be a very talkative comet. Together they spent some time talking when it was time for comet to leave. Fortunately for little star, the comet said that she will come again in 185 years.

Little star carried on shining brightly in the sky as she waited for her new friend to return.

Once upon a time, high above the World, up in the Sky, there lived a little star. She was very much admired by everybody. She was quite happy, but sometimes she felt lonely. All the other stars were so big and old, and she was the only small one. So she decided to go on an adventure to find new friends.

The star walked among the galactics, she met many stars, black holes and asteroids, but she still hasn't found the right friend. So she became more and more sad, and one day she stopped walking and cried herself to sleep.

When the star awoke she found herself... at home. She couldn't realize it earlier, because her friends weren't there. She traveled for so long they were already gone and the star herself became a giant. She looked at a place ^{where} her friends once were and found out there were now thousands of new little stars. She then thought she traveled enough and decided to stay home and look after them.
